

Adhere to the people-centered principle and improve the construction of communal law service system

Hao Sun

Department of Law, Institution of Public Administration, Changchun University of Technology, Changchun
130000 China

Keywords: Adhere to the people-centered; Communal law services; Citizens' legitimate rights and interests

Abstract: Communal law services are derived from the basis and political ethical requirements of a government for its citizens' unshirkable and unalterable responsibilities in legal obligations and political morality. Based on the government's public service functions, they are provided by the government as a whole, reflect the attribute of equalization of basic public resource allocation and social public welfare, and aim to protect the basic rights of citizens, It is a general basic law service necessary to safeguard citizens' legitimate rights and interests and realize social fairness and justice. Accurately grasp the new requirements and expectations of the people in the new era, adhere to the people-centered development thought, and take the fundamental interests of the people as the starting point and foothold, so as to make the people have a more realistic and richer sense of access, happiness and security in the field of communal law services. By combing the communal law service system, this paper expounds the importance of the communal law service system in the construction and promotion, makes relevant reflections on the current situation and problems of the construction of the communal law service system, and then talks about some superficial views on the relevant problems.

1. Introduction

In recent years, Changchun's law services have generally shown a trend of increasing types, expanding fields, innovating methods and improving quality. At the same time, there are still some problems and shortcomings in the construction of communal law service system [1]. Accelerating the construction of a complete communal law service system is related to promoting the modernization of social governance capacity, establishing a service-oriented government and improving the people's livelihood and welfare system [2]. Improve the understanding of the construction of communal law service system. The communal law service system is a major measure taken by China to implement and comprehensively promote the construction of a society ruled by law. In order to form a communal law service system with real social significance, the construction not only needs the comprehensive leadership of the government and the participation of social forces, but also needs the public to continuously strengthen the awareness of the rule of law, so as to form a social joint force [3]. Judicial administrative organs at all levels need to coordinate the management of legal resources at all levels, unify the key work of building community legal service system, and unify the understanding of legal forces at all levels by holding working meetings, consultation meetings, publicity and implementation meetings, etc. It is also necessary to strengthen the publicity of social law popularization and strengthen the publicity of social rule of law through legal education and legal publicity [4].

Build a complete law service system and promote the construction of a communal law service system covering urban and rural residents [5]. Promoting the construction of communal law service system is an important reform measure and system planning in response to new situations and problems in the field of rule of law construction in China [6]. The provision of public services is an important part of the government's public functions, and communal law services are an indispensable part of the public service system [7]. With the transformation of China's government role from "omnipotent" to "service-oriented", the communal law service system is the further expansion and promotion of the government's public service system. Based on the established goal of building a well-off society in an all-round way and realizing the Chinese dream of the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation, focus on the strategic layout of comprehensively deepening reform, comprehensively promoting the rule of law, and the grand goal of building China, government and society under the rule of law [8].

2. The significance of promoting the construction of communal law service system

2.1. The inevitable requirement of comprehensively promoting the rule of law and realizing the modernization of national governance system and governance capacity

The construction of communal law service system has been gradually carried out throughout the country through the deployment and arrangement of relevant departments of the Central Committee and the State Council [9]. The communal law service system refers to the integration of various law service resources and social forces such as lawyers, notarization and judicial expertise led by the government and coordinated by judicial administrative organs [10]. This means that the broad masses of the people have new expectations for a better life, not just at the material level, but put forward higher requirements in democracy, the rule of law, fairness and justice. Protecting social fairness and justice is an important value orientation for the government to carry out administrative work. Constantly promoting the construction of communal law service system is conducive to ensuring the realization of citizens' basic rights to the greatest extent. Law is an important weapon for governing the country, and the rule of law is an important support for the national governance system and governance capacity. Comprehensively ruling the country according to law is not only a long-term and major historical task, but also a profound change in the field of national governance. Give full play to the functions of lawyers, legal advisers, justice, judicial expertise and other departments, improve relevant mechanisms, improve the thinking and working ability of the rule of law, safeguard the sacred dignity of the law, enhance the concept of the rule of law, adhere to legal belief, cultivate the conscious action of the whole society, and constantly improve the legalization level of social governance.

2.2. Better meet the urgent needs of people's law service needs

With the rapid development of China's economy and society, people's awareness of legal system is constantly increasing, material and cultural life is generally improving, and their awareness of being eager for fairness and justice and actively participating in social management is becoming stronger and stronger. The strong will generated by this society urges people to have higher requirements for communal law services. The economic situation, living conditions and right ecology of some vulnerable groups in contemporary China, which have actually become the bottom of society, are worrying. Especially based on the realistic differences of personal abilities, Matthew effect is increasingly prominent in social and cultural life in some places and fields. Therefore, the judicial administrative organs must actively adapt to the communal law service requirements of the people, build a multi-level, multi-field and multi-media platform, improve the communal law service network, enrich service products, improve service levels and capabilities, and better meet the people's yearning for a better life. The people have the most say in the quality and level of communal law services, and they are also the best "examiners" to judge the examination papers. We should strive to improve people's awareness rate, preference rate and satisfaction rate of communal law services, strive to build a communal law service system that people are satisfied with, and constantly enhance people's sense of acquisition, happiness and security.

2.3. Improve the level of law services

Improving the level of law service and building communal law service platform is a basic work to promote the construction of communal law service system. Implement the law service quality improvement project. Based on the functional orientation of platform construction, the communal law service resources should be integrated as a whole, and three platforms, entity, hotline and network, should be built with high quality and standards, so as to truly highlight its service functions. Actively innovate and improve methods and means such as inquiry service, window service, reservation service and door-to-door service; Implement the law service publicity and promotion project. Improve the public awareness rate and social influence of communal law service platform; Implement the law service system construction guarantee project. Take the construction of law service system as the basic work of social governance in the whole province, do a good job in the construction of hardware facilities, strengthen the funding guarantee, increase the staffing and strengthen the legal aid team; Implement the quality improvement project of grass-roots mediation team. Implement the "grid" management of people's mediation, and lead the mediation work to fine development. Vigorously promote the construction of professional and industrial mediation organizations, and establish various professional mediation organizations such as traffic accidents, medical disputes, consumer disputes and labor disputes.

3. Countermeasures to promote the construction of communal law service system

3.1. Optimize and integrate efficiently and build a service platform

For the district and county level, we need the strong support of the government, make use of various resources, build practical communal law service centers, efficiently optimize and integrate legal consultation, legal aid, legal publicity and other services, simplify cumbersome services, and formulate scientific, reasonable and convenient service supply processes; At the township level, we can set up service windows, integrate all useful service resources, and use law service personnel and volunteers to greatly mobilize their work enthusiasm and make them provide services. The ruling party and people's governments at all levels should and must make an institutional response in a timely and effective manner. The responsible government must make rational realistic arrangements and preferential choices for important values such as efficiency, fairness and justice. The premise and foundation of social harmony, long-term stability and peaceful China need to be gradually consolidated step by step, bit by bit and constantly consolidated. Attach importance to the party's leadership over the construction of communal law service system. Party committees and governments at all levels should attach great importance to it, according to the scientific planning of local economic and social development level, put the construction of communal law service system on the agenda, clarify and implement the main responsibility, and work out specific plans to follow up the work process, which can be used as the comprehensive assessment basis of regional economic and social development, improve service quality and effectively guarantee the development of people's livelihood. Carry out theoretical research on the construction of communal law service system, popularize good experiences and practices, and play a leading role in promoting the construction of communal law service system. Increase financial support to underdeveloped areas, narrow the regional gap, encourage law service institutions in developed areas to support the development of law service institutions in underdeveloped areas through counterpart aid, improve the service level and promote the balanced development of communal law services.

3.2. Straighten out the management system and improve the safeguard mechanism

Local governments must straighten out the management system, clarify the functions of various service departments, establish a list of rights, responsibilities and public services, and form a scientific, reasonable and effective service mechanism. They also need to constantly improve the communal law service system, incorporate the construction of the communal law service system into the social development plan, build a reasonable organizational structure, set up special working groups, divide tasks, identify people, be responsible for designing the scheme, and follow up, check and supervise the implementation of the scheme. Accelerate the construction of communal law service platform and improve the evaluation mechanism of communal law service management. Under the background of the continuous development of Internet technology, we use Internet technology to create a network service platform, innovate service methods and reduce cumbersome procedures. Promote the construction of talent team and improve the service level. In the construction of communal law services, it is necessary to strengthen the cultivation of a group of talented people with excellent skills. In terms of talent introduction and training, relevant departments should invest special funds to effectively enhance the protection of human resources and strengthen the regularization of talent team. Pay attention to guiding party members among law service personnel to actively take the lead in participating in communal law services, give full play to the leading and exemplary role of party members, and promote the construction process of communal law services. On the management system, the judicial department should establish a scientific and reasonable system and mechanism, straighten out the relationship, clarify the responsibilities, and avoid the inconsistency between the powers and responsibilities of communal law service subjects, buck passing in practice and the proliferation of bureaucracy. In promoting the construction of communal law service system, we should improve the professional ethics system, increase the number of lawyers and other professional legal talents, strengthen the team of people's mediators, standardize the development of grass-roots law service teams, improve their service awareness and professionalism, promote the professionalization, regularization and professionalization of the talent team, and effectively improve the service level.

3.3. Promote the continuous innovation of communal law services

Closely follow the actual needs of the masses, continuously optimize the structure of communal law services, innovate the ways and paths of communal law services, and truly solve the practical problems encountered in law for the masses around the performance, reflection, tracking, disposal and feedback of the needs of the masses. Vigorously promote the balanced allocation of communal law service resources, study and formulate incentive policies and establish and improve relevant supporting mechanisms in accordance with the requirements of the "three principles" of Urban-Rural Balance, regional balance and population balance. Carry out accurate support for communal law services. We will explore and implement differentiated policies for talent recruitment and management to alleviate the shortage of talents in communal law services. We will explore the establishment of an evaluation index system for the supply of communal law services and improve the scientific and accurate allocation of communal law services. Establish a diversified communal law service market participation mechanism to create a unified, open, competitive and orderly communal law service market. Actively guide law firms, notarial institutions, judicial appraisal institutions, grass-roots law service institutions and other law service providers to participate in communal law services, improve the overall management and optimal allocation of communal law service resources, and form a good situation of joint participation of the whole society.

4. Conclusions

Through the ages, the practice of social governance at home and abroad has fully shown that a society is unfair in the legal system if its achievements in economic development and the civilization of the rule of law cannot truly and widely divert or distribute the value of justice in an appropriate form to the public through fair procedural arrangements, It will also be unpopular politically and morally, and it is risky, because it is destined to threaten social harmony and stability sooner or later. Innovate the mode of communal law service provision. Under the background that the development of legal resources in China lags behind and the construction of law service platform is unbalanced and insufficient, local governments should adjust measures to local conditions, fully mobilize the enthusiasm of social law to participate in the construction of social communal law service system, constantly push through the old and bring forth the new, and innovate the mode of communal law service provision. For social harmony and stability and the long-term stability of the country, fairness and justice are particularly fundamental. The comprehensive construction of communal law service system will inevitably become one of the indispensable and important parts of the government's public governance system, which will determine the performance of social governance.

References

- [1] Fan Yuwen. Improve the level of communal law services to meet the rule of law needs of the masses [J]. People's Mediation, 2019(11):2.
- [2] Gou Yulun. Improve the grass-roots communal law service system based on the judiciary [J]. People's mediation, 2018(5):2.
- [3] Wang Xiucheng. Thoroughly implement the spirit of the 19th Party Congress and promote the construction of communal law service system [J]. Communist Party member (Hebei), 2018(18):1.
- [4] Zhang Xiaofeng, Yang Chen. Ankang Procuratorate: Adhere to the people-centered service for local high-quality development [J]. China Report, 2020(2):3.
- [5] Guan Weibin, Jin Yuanpeng. Problems and countermeasures of Gansu communal law service system construction in the new era [J]. China Justice, 2018(3):6.
- [6] Xu Juan. Practice and exploration of building a shared communal law service platform in the data age-taking Sichuan as an empirical sample [J]. China Justice, 2020(10):5.
- [7] Yang Kai. On the construction of modern communal law service system [J]. Forum on Rule of Law, 2019(1):4.
- [8] Wu Xianlong. Linshu County promotes the integration of urban and rural communal law services [J]. Chang 'an, 2019(4):1.
- [9] Wang Hui. Investigation and thinking on the construction of communal law service system-taking Dongying City as an example [J]. Journal of Shandong Agricultural Engineering University, 2018, 35(5):4.
- [10] Zhou Qiang. Adhere to the people-centered development thought and vigorously promote the construction of diversified dispute resolution mechanism and modern litigation service system [J]. China Trial, 2019(17):8.